DOWN WITH THE FRYING PAN

"The frying pan must go," says Miss Lillian Tingle, head of the household arts department of the University of Oregon. She wants it banished, as an ingenious reader might guess, because she thinks it doesn't jibe with food conservation.

It may have been all right as a cooking utensil of the pioneer, she admits. That more or less fortunate wight had plenty of food and needed some easy, simple and quick way of preparing it. The frying pan filled the bill, and he never reckoned the waste.

But today we have got to reckon the waste. Wherefore we should turn to the more scientific and civilized methods of cooking now available, and use them for all they're worth.

The last word in this matter, she explains, is the casserole. The French people, who are the most economical cooks in the world, do nearly all their cooking that way. Thus they save every bit of the meat, and the bones and all—instead of losing the finest part of it as we're likely to do our crude processes.

So it's down with the frying pan and up with the casserole. Or if any old-fashioned folk balk at such a fancy foreign utensil, then up with the stew-pot, which amounts to the same thing. Any maybe a roasting pan—covered—may be tolerated now and then. Anyhow, save the gravy. And as Mr. Hoover exhorts, "spread the flavor."

BREAD IN THE FURNACE

A housewife handicapped by a combined scarcity of coal and reports a solution of the problem that would doubtless delight either Dr. Garfield or Mr. Hoover. She bakes her bread in the furnace, thus making one fire do the work of two. She places the loaves just inside the door, and it works quite satisfactorily. She says the fire is first reduced to a smokeless bed of hot coals.

That's really getting back to first principles. Didn't people use bake bread, as well as do all their other cooking, in the big open fireplace that heated the house?

That same old-fashioned fireplace, though, was woefully wasteful. Most of the heat passed up the chimney. The modern furnace, for heating purposes, as great an improvement as the modern kitchen range is for cooking.

And yet, in both these modern marvels there is still room for more efficiency. Too much of the heat still passes up the chimney. The heat thus lost from the average furnace is much more than would suffice for the family cooking, if it could be caught and used. And the heat lost from the kitchen range, whether burning coal or gas, would heat some of the cold rooms if it could be properly utilized.

Why don't the inventors get busy along this line?

A COMMUNITY PIG FARM

The suggestion that every family should raise at least one pig is rather hard to follow, since many families in many communities haven't the necessary back yard. Memphis, Tenn., it is reported, is solving the difficulty by starting a municipal pig farm.

A public spirited man has contributed several acres of land here for the project. Any citizen will be permitted to have two pigs a year raised there.

Full details as to the working out of the scheme are not given. Presumably citizens raising pigs at the municipal farm will co-operate on running expenses and will pay for their own pigs. Caretakers will be hired to look after the whole outfit, and the owners will finally dispose of their pigs as they wish either through their co-operative organization or as individuals.

If managed with any degree of skill and care the project ought to be a money-making one for citizens of Memphis. And it's a pity one, since the country is in such great need of increased pork production. Other cities would do well to copy. Community pig farms ought to be looked upon with favor everywhere.

"REACHING FOR THE MOON"

Manager Thomas M. Russell is jubilantly announcing the best photograph Douglas Fairbanks has yet appeared in, released by Artercraft, which is presented at Opera House Tuesday. The picture is based upon original ideas of Fairbanks, which accounts for the rather odd title, "Reaching for the Moon."

Douglas is somewhat of a philosopher, and has always contended that if a man can make good in a small way he can develop himself to succeed in a bigger venture; that the attainment of happiness is really success, and that one should take advantage of existing opportunities instead of "reaching for the moon."

Anita Loos and John Emerson prepared this philosophical story, dealing with the dreamer who envies the big man. The co-authors have a unique twist at the end of their story, which is a surprising finale, and would spoil the pleasure of those seeing the film in told in advance.

The scenes are laid in Italy and New York. Owing to the difficulty of ocean travel, Fairbanks and his company were prevented from photographing the scenes in Europe, and Artercraft was compelled to build an Italian city, with romantic canals and picturesque gondolas, and a royal palace, which were constructed in Los Angeles. To secure the New York scenes the company travelled 5,000 miles, going to this expense for the sake of realism in presenting eight scenes which will occupy about ten minutes of time to project, on the screen.

The reproduction of the settings of a royal court, and the magnificent costumes, make this photoplay one of the most costly and pretentious ever released by Artercraft.

GLAD TO TESTIFY

Says Watoga Lady, "As To What Cardui Has Done For Me, So As To Help Others."

Watoga, W. Va.—Mrs. S. W. Gladwell, of this town, says: "When about 55 years of age, I suffered greatly... Sometimes would go a month or two, and then terrible headache, backache, and bearing-down pains, and would just drag and had no appetite. Then... it would last... two weeks, and was so weakening, and my health was awful."

My mother bought me a bottle of Cardui, and I began to improve after taking the first bottle, so kept it up till I took three... I gained, and was well and strong, and I owe it all to Cardui.

I am married now and have 3 children... Have never had to have a doctor for female trouble, and just resort to Cardui if I need a tonic. I am glad to testify to what it has done for me, so as to help others."

If you are nervous or weak, have headaches, backaches, or any of the other ailments so common to women, why not give Cardui a trial? Recommended by many physicians. In use over 40 years. Begin taking Cardui today. It may be the very medicine you need.

Troy, N. Y.—"I suffered for more than seven months from a displacement and three doctors told me I would have to have an operation. I had dragging down pains, backache and headaches and could not do my housework. My sister who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound asked me to try it. I have taken several bottles and am now entirely well—no I do all my work—and not a trace of my old trouble. I have told many of my friends what wonderful results they will get from its use."—Mrs. S. TAKE THOUGHT OF THE SPRING GARDEN NOW

Take thought of the spring garden now.

Notwithstanding the large production of vegetables this year and the great volume put into cans and jars for winter use, there is nothing to indicate that there will not be equal need for production and conservation in 1918, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Many gardens failed this year because of poor soil or poor preparation or both.

This is the time in many sections to break and to fertilize. Then in the spring it will be easier to make the seed bed and the soil will contain plant food.

For the average householder it will be sufficient to prepare ground enough to produce the home supply for eating in the fresh state and for canning, drying or bringing for use during the following winter. Producing vegetables for market should not be undertaken without full knowledge of horticulture and sufficient capital and equipment.

Marshalltown, Iowa, a city of 20,000, has located through its county agent and a special agent of the extension department 75 acres of its within the city limits which were not cultivated the past season. They also found that much ground was not properly plowed and prepared during the past season and that many of these lots failed to produce because of the poor character of the soil. Crops not well adapted to certain soils had been planted.

It is the plan of the county agent and the local organization in Marshalltown to extend the cultivated area and to see that the crops are adapted to soil conditions. Investigations in this city showed that $2,000 was paid in cash last year for food for the poor. Ninety per cent of the potatoes consumed were imported from a long distance. The committees conducting this survey work were appointed by the mayor and they are now systematically arranging to mature, plow, and assign these lots to persons desiring ground for garden next year.

Here is what one Iowa city is doing to get ready for next year's garden campaign.

First. A survey of the city was made and 75 acres of space suitable for garden was located inside the city limits in addition to what was put in gardens last spring.

Second. Three hundred tons of manure which could be used for fertilizer were located within the city limits.

Third. An inspection of the treasurer's books showed that $2,000 in cash were paid out last year to needy people.

Fourth. Ninety per cent of the potatoes consumed last year were shipped in from outside points.

What did the city do about it?

Well, the city, council and commercial club met and appointed committees in every voting precinct. These committees will arrange for teams, wagons, and plows, and will organize the work so that it can be done efficiently and economically.

The mayor says the city will use some of the city money to employ

It is further planned that those who receive support from the city must take care of a garden according to instructions—that is, provided they are able to work.

Those who wish to prepare themselves to make a success of home vegetable gardens next spring should obtain Farmers' Bulletin No. 818, "The Small Vegetable Garden," which the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will send free on request.

HE CURED CHRONIC COLD WITH VINOL

Mr. Bagley's Letter Printed Here as Proof

Dunn, N. C.—"I suffered with a chronic cold for four months, coughed day and night. Had to keep on working when I was not able to. I saw Vinol advertised and tried it, and I want to tell you it just cured that cold in a short time."—J. C. Bagley, Dunn, N. C.

That's because Vinol is a constitutional cod liver and iron remedy which aids digestion, enriches the blood and creates strength. Then chronic coughs and colds naturally disappear. Your money will be returned if it does not help you.

A WHOLE DINNER IN ONE DISH
(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture)
(U. S. Food Administration)

The youngsters will like it. Father will like it. You will like it. Your pocketbook will surely like it. Your bodies can't help liking it. "Uncle Sam" is bound to like it. Everybody will like the one-dish dinner. Why?

A dish hot and savory—good for work or play—that is why the father and the children will like it.

Easy to cook and serve—that is one reason why you will like it. Only one dish to cook, few plates to wash, steps saved.

Good nourishing food—you can feel sure that you are feeding your family right if you give them this dinner. It contains all their bodies need to help them work and grow strong.

This dinner helps you do your part for our country. You can save wheat and meat to ship abroad. Our soldiers and Allies need more than most.

Fish Chowder
Rabbit, fowl, or any meat may be used instead of the fish, or tomatoes instead of milk. Carrots may be omitted.

1½ pounds fish (fresh, salt, or canned), 9 potatoes, peeled and cut in small pieces, 1 onion, sliced, 2 cups carrots cut in pieces, ¼ pound salt pork, 3 cups milk, pepper, 3 tablespoons flour.

Cut pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots, and potatoes in kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until vegetables are tender. Mix three tablespoons of flour with one-half cup of the cold milk and stir in the liquid in the pot to thicken. Add the rest of the milk and the fish which has been removed from the bone and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, about 10 minutes. Serve hot. You can omit salt pork and use a tablespoon of other fat.

Dried Pease With Rice and Tomatoes
½ cups rice, 2 cups dried pease, 6 onions, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups tomato (fresh or canned).

Soak pease over night in two quarts of water. Cook until tender in water in which they soaked. Add rice, onions, tomato, and seasonings and cook 20 minutes.

Potted Hominy and Beef

Hominy is excellent to use as part of a one-dish dinner, if you have fire in your stove so that you can cook it for a long time, or use a fireless cooker. Heat 1½ arts of water to boiling; add 1 teaspoon of salt and 2 cups of hominy which has been soaked overnight. Cook in double boiler for four hours or in the fireless cooker overnight. This makes 5 cups. This recipe may be increased and enough cooked in different ways for several meals. Hominy is excellent combined with dried, canned, or fresh fish, or meat and vegetable leftovers may be used. Here is one combination.

5 cups cooked hominy, 4 potatoes, 2 cups carrots, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ pound dried beef, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour.

Melt the fat, stir the flour, add the cold milk, and mix well. Cook until it thickens. At the potatoes and carrots in dice, mix all the materials in a baking dish, and bake for one hour. These dishes supply all five kinds of food. Each is enough for the whole dinner for a family of five. Eat them with bread and with fruit or jam for dessert. Then you will have all the kinds of food your body needs. These five kinds are shown below:

The Five Food Groups
1. Vegetables or fruits.
2. Milk, or cheese, or eggs, or fish, or meat, or beans.
3. Cereal: Corn, rice, oats, rye, or wheat.
4. Sirup or sugar.
5. Fat: Such as drippings, oleomargarine, oil, butter.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Maysville Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as representative. The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit. But the endorsement of friends is. Now suppose you had a bad back, a lame, weak, or aching one. Would you experiment on it? You will read of many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from far-away places. It's different when the endorsement comes from home. Easy to prove local testimony. Read this Maysville case: Ben. P. Fleming, constable of Mason Co., 217 E. Lee St., Maysville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for several years, getting them at Wood & Son's Drug Store, and they have been of great benefit. At times, my kidneys have been out of order and I have suffered from a dull, constant ache through the small of my back. The kidney secretions have been irregular in passage, too. A box or so of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to relieve me of the complaint in a short time."

Mr. Fleming is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches or if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS the same that Mr. Fleming had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name"

Choose something from each of these five groups every day.

More One-Dish Meals
There are some more recipes for dishes of this kind in other United States Food Leaflets.

"Instead of Meat" (Leaflet No. 8) tells what foods are good to use when you don't buy meat, and how to make some meatless one-dish meals.

"Make a Little Meat Go a Long Way" (Leaflet No. 5) will help you to cut down your meat bills. The savory stews and meat pies show how you can give your family a good one-dish meal by using a little meat in various combinations.

You can make up other recipes for yourself by combining foods from most of the five groups. Pass them on to your neighbor.

NEW TRUST POLICY

The government's decision to postpone action on all anti-trust suits pending in the courts has gone almost unnoticed. It represents, however, a momentous change of government policy with regard to big business.

The department of justice has asked for postponement of its trust dissolution suits until next October. It is announced that at that time further suspension will be asked for until the close of the war. And we may safely assume, as the administration doubtless does, that by that time the nation will have evolved a new public policy toward business which will make further "trust-busting" unnecessary.

The Sherman law, which has dominated a dead letter, superseded by congressional acts authorizing the executive department to disregard it. Today there is, in this country, no effective federal law against monopoly, and no desire for it. What was recently proscribed is now praised and practiced. Combination, pooling, centralization, elimination of competition, these are the watchwords of the nation. Business and government are at last on common ground. The government is doing, with the help of big business, what it so long forbade big business to do. And the public applauds.

The war, with its big broom, has swept away academic theories and forced the world to recognize and act upon facts. And the biggest economic truth that has dawned on this country is the fact that the age of competition is past. It was good and necessary in its time, but we have got beyond it. who will control these matters through ownership or supervision. And the once selfish and hostile capitalists of industry will be working cheerfully and loyally for their new boss.

Let no superficial thinker imagine, however, that we are literally practicing today, or will practice hereafter, the very thing we have hitherto forbidden. Trusts, combinations, monopolies, were formerly condemned because they were conducted as private enterprises, for private profit, and were thus inimical to the welfare of the general public. They are approved now because they are conducted directly or indirectly, by public representatives, for the public interest. The method is pretty much the same. The basic economy is the same—the suppression of wasteful competition, the gaining of greater economy and efficiency through more complete co-operation and centralized control. But the motive and purpose are different.

The essential thing is the protection of the public. With that assured, the matter becomes simple. We have a railroad monopoly; we may soon have a coal monopoly, a wheat monopoly, a sugar monopoly, a steel monopoly, etc. But we shall have in every case a benevolent public monopoly instead of a selfish private monopoly.

By the time the war ends we shall probably have this new system in excellent working order, and be accustomed to it. If so, we shall hardly want to change back to the warring, wasteful system of unrestrained private competition in fields that are naturally adapted to monopolistic management. We may expect, then, an end of anti-trust legislation and trust-busting. We shall be reconciled, in our biggest and most vital industries, to the sway of a new trust magnate, the biggest in the world—Uncle Sam.

C. E. MARTIN, Proprietor.CHARGE OF 10c PER POUND FOR SUGAR

Is Too Much, Says Chairman of Conservation Division, U. S. Food Administration, in Letter to Miss Alice Lloyd—Says Lamb Should Not Be Served at Any Time.

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Louisville, Ky., January 11. Miss Alice Lloyd, Chairman Food Administration Mason Con. Maysville, Ky.

Dear Miss Lloyd:

In answer to your question as to your restaurants should not serve lamb on Tuesdays and meatless day, and includes all red meats. There is a protest against using lamb at any time. It is such a sacrifice not to let the lambs grow into mutton. "But," the grocer who charged you 10c for sugar, charged you 1c too much. He must be spoken to, and if you will tell us his name we will write him from here, calling his attention to his lack of patriotism in not conforming to the regulation prices.

Very sincerely,
MRS. MORRIS GIFFORD,
Chairman Conservation Division U. S. Food Administration.

FOOD CONTROL TO BE DRASTIC

Washington, January 13.—Stringent regulation of food consumption in America, including compulsory wheatless and meatless days, is in prospect as a result of a conference between Herbert Hoover, food administrator, and congressional leaders yesterday.

Friends of Miss Anna Arn will be pleased to hear that she is steadily improving at Hayswood Hospital and that she will be able to return to her home in a few days.

FIRE!

If you knew that you were going to have a fire tonight; That your home would be burned to the ground; That you would be left penniless—Would you insure against loss in a good reliable company at a small cost. Our policy won't stop losses, but one in the house is more protection than the whole fire department and its indemnities.

POPE REPORTED TO BE BACKING WILSON TERMS

Rome, January 13.—Intimations that Pope Benedict diplomatically had called attention of Emperor Carl of Austria to President Wilson's war aims message and suggested he seek to influence the Kaiser's consideration of these peace terms, was made in influential Vatican circles today.

Official comment on the matter was refused at the Vatican. The report, however, said the pope had called attention of the Catholic monarch to the correspondence exchanged relative to the pope's own peace efforts as hearing on consideration now of the president's terms.

There were persistent, although unofficial, rumors today that the pope eventually would gather up the threads of the allied powers and from these try to weave a fabric which would serve as the ground work for peace.

Mr. Hugh O'Donnell and son, Mr. Hugh O'Donnell, Jr., and bride, and Miss Eunice O'Donnell, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. O'Donnell, of Forest avenue, will leave for their home in New York tonight.

Miss Itha Ross returned to Cincinnati today after spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ross of East Third street.

MAIL RELIEF SIDETRACKED FOR FREIGHT

Washington, January 13.—Was your mail late this morning?

If so, there is no use to get mad about it; might just as well be patient and expect it to be late for many other mornings, for Uncle Sam must smash the freight blockade before he can turn his attention to relieving mail and passenger congestion in the interest of winning the war and while the freight blockade is being broken, mails will generally be late.

The first blow in smashing the freight blockade will be to clear terminals. Then as rapidly as possible mail and passenger service will be restored.

"More than 400 trains have been eliminated," Assistant Secretary Fraeger said. "Many of these were what we know as 'mail trunk lines.' By discontinuing these trains mail is delayed several hours between largest cities.
